

Reading

- You could go to the library and find some interesting books that tell stories about families. Can you find books that are about families in other countries? Don't forget to write down the titles so we can read them too.
- Can you read more than 10 books over the holiday?

Maths

Keep practising your maths too!

- Do you know all the different combinations that add up to 10? How about 20?
- Can you weight the ingredients for your favourite dinner?
- Can you write all your numbers to 100?
- Can you count in 2s, 5s and 10s?

Places to Visit

- Who am I? gallery at the Science Museum (South Kensington—free)
- World Gallery at the Horniman Museum—find out about other places, people and cultures (Forest Hill - free)
- Burgess Park—maybe for a family picnic?
- Find out about how farms grow food and look after animals at Surrey Docks farm (free)

Who am I?

The topic next term for Years 1 and 2 will be 'Who am I?'

We will be thinking about the wonderful individuals we are, but also about all the things we have in common.

Here are some suggestions of ways you could support your child's learning. You don't have to do all of them, but if you could work on some of them with your child over the holiday it would support their understanding as we start our new school year.

Geography

Can find the different countries that your family or friends come from on a map. Or maybe the countries you have been to on holiday.

Art

- You could draw or paint a family portrait. Maybe everyone could be holding their favourite thing!
- How about drawing a family tree together? Do you know what everyone's name is and when their birthdays are?

Writing

- Can you write the instructions for how to make your favourite family meal? We'd love to see a photo of it too! Don't forget to include a list of ingredients.
- Maybe you could write about a special memory that one of the grown ups who looks after you has of being a child.
- How about writing a diary of the lovely things you do with your family over the holiday. We would love to read about what you did.

Art and Design

- Could you make a junk model of your favourite room in your home? Or in the home of one of your family members?

Science

- Can you help to cook your favourite meal? Or a cake? Don't forget to take a photograph.
- Maybe you could keep a food diary to show all the healthy things you eat, and some treats too!
